- (c) Pratyahara
- (d) Dharana
- (e) Dhyana
- (f) Samadhi

SECTION IV: PSYCHOLOGY AND PHYSIOLOGY OF YOGA

1. An Understanding of Yoga

Definition of yoga: according to Patanjali, as explained in the Bhagvad Gita. (yoga is excellence in action\works)

How is yoga different from other forms of physical exercise? To be discussed with respect to the interconnection between mind, body, and spirit and how yoga brings these into harmony with each other. Yoga also addresses imbalances and illnesses at an organic level (the action of yoga reaches the inner organs and heals chronic ailments from the roots).

2. Hatha Yoga

- (a) Understanding the roots
Ha (the sun) Tha (the moon). Hence Hatha yoga is the art and science of balancing power (the sun) with peace (the moon) as applied to:
 - (i) Muscles: asanas should strengthen them (sun aspect) and make them flexible (moon aspect).
 - (ii) Degree of stretch in an asana should not be maximum nor minimum but optimum (balanced and so recommended).

- (b) Breath
 - (i) Inhalation, the power or the sun aspect of the breath
 - (ii) Exhalation, the peace or the moon aspect of the breath
- (c) Nadis
 - Ida (moon channel, left nostril), Pingala (sun channel, right nostril), Sushumna (central channel) (Just a basic concept and location of above nadis).*

3. Psychological aspect of an asana practice

Reactivity threshold; psychological aspects of: Meditative and relaxing postures, forward bending asanas, back bending asanas, standing asanas, balancing asanas and inverted asanas.

- Reactivity threshold: By watching the breath instead of paying attention to the pain experienced during an asana one becomes less reactive in day to day life as well.
- Meditative and relaxing postures: bring self-discipline, relaxation and steadiness
- Forward bending asanas: Bring peace, release of tension, and humility to the mind.
- Back bending asanas: Energise the system and enhance self-esteem.
- Standing asanas: Help to root the practitioner in existence. Enhance stability and endurance.
- Balancing asanas: Increase concentration and focus
- Inverted asanas: Hormone balancing hence anti-anxiety and anti-depression.

4. Pancha Koshas

Panch Koshas - a concept from the Taittiriya Upanishad: Annamaya Pranamaya, Manomaya, Vijnanamaya, Anandamaya kosha.

A basic understanding of how a human being is made up of the above sheaths; how each sheath is related to the next sheath. An understanding of the relationship between life force (prana) and the physical body (Annamaya) so also an understanding of connection between thoughts (Manomaya) and the energy flowing in the body (Pranamaya).

5. Pancha Pranas

Prana, Apana, Samana, Udana, Vyana

Location and basic functions of the above 5 pranas.

6. The Seven Chakras

Muladhara, Swadishthana, Manipura, Anahata, Visuddhi, Ajna, Sahasrara

Location and functions; the element the chakra is associated with; colour of the chakra.

7. Sutras

Sutras 2.29. 2.46

The above two sutras should be known with their meanings.

8. Yogachara: wellness through the four pillars of yoga

(i) Ahar (diet)

An introduction to the concepts of Sattva, Rajas and Tamas as applied to food; The importance of a healthy diet and its effect on physical, emotional and mental wellbeing. Importance of the following:

- Incorporating seasonal fresh fruit and vegetables in the diet*
- Drinking adequate amount of water in a day*
- Health hazards of in taking an excess of aerated drinks, refined flour, salt, white sugar, packaged foods.*
- Concept of mitahar (as in Hatha yoga), importance of eating right quality and quantity of food.*

(ii) Vihar (relaxation and recreation)

Importance of conscious relaxation as in shavasana, doing recreational activities (developing creative hobbies) in which, body, mind and emotions are involved.

(iii) Achar

Importance of discipline in routines and actions/work; for example: sleep and wake up early, maintain meal times.

(iv) Vichar (thoughts)

Positive thinking, pratipaksh bhavana, understanding the temporary nature of the objects through Anitya bhavana, attitude of gratitude and forgiveness, surrendering the 'I' sense.

 - (a) Abdominal breath
 - (b) Thoracic breath
 - (c) Clavicular breath

CLASS X

There will be two papers in the subject.

Paper I (Theory) will be of two hours duration carrying 100 marks. The paper will be divided into four sections as follows:

Section I: 40 marks

Section II: 20 marks

Section III: 20 marks

Section IV: 20 marks

Section I will be compulsory. Candidates will be required to attempt all the questions from this section. There will be no choice of questions.

Sections II, III and IV will have a choice of questions. Candidates will be required to attempt two questions from each section.

The above sections will correspond to the sections given in the syllabus.

Paper II (Internal Assessment) will carry 100 marks.

PAPER I (THEORY)

SECTION I: HUMAN BIOLOGY

1. The Nervous System

The neuron, central nervous system and peripheral nervous system, the sense organs. Role of Yoga in maintaining the health of the nervous system.

The neuron: Structure (cyton, axon, terminal branches, synapse, myelin sheath) and function (carry messages in the nervous system in the form of electrical impulses); Kinds of neurons: Sensory, Motor, Association. Nerves and ganglia: definition only.

The Central Nervous System: The Brain: Meninges, Forebrain: Cerebrum (Temporal, Parietal, Occipital, Frontal) and Diencephalon; Midbrain; Hindbrain (Cerebellum, Pons, Medulla oblongata). Location and basic function of each of the above parts.

The Spinal Cord: Structure and function; Reflex action: Simple reflex, Conditioned reflex;

The Peripheral Nervous System: Somatic nervous system: Cranial nerves and spinal nerves (the number of cranial and spinal nerves present in the body); the Autonomic nervous system: Sympathetic nervous system and Parasympathetic nervous system (location and function).

The Sense Organs

Eyes: Structure and function of different constituent parts; common eye defects: Myopia, Hyperopia, Cataract.

Ear: outer ear, middle ear, inner ear (structure and function of the constituent parts); the Eustachian Tube; role of the ear in maintaining balance.

The sense of smell: importance of the olfactory nerve; flavour: a combination of taste and smell;

The sense of taste: The 4 fundamental tastes: sweet, salty, bitter, sour;

The Sense of touch: Nerve endings in the skin related to pressure, pain, hot, cold;

How Yoga helps to maintain the health of the nervous system and sense organs.

2. The Endocrine System

A study of the Pituitary gland, the Thyroid, the Adrenal glands and the Pancreas; role of Yoga in maintaining the health of the endocrine glands.

The above must be studied with respect to the following: location, hormones secreted, effects of over-secretion and under secretion of hormones.

How yoga helps to regulate the functioning of the endocrine glands and helps in achieving hormonal balance.

3. The Circulatory System

Structure and functioning of the heart; disorders of the circulatory system; the lymphatic system; composition of blood; role of yoga in improving blood circulation.

Heart: Location, covering (pericardium), chambers of the heart, blood vessels entering and leaving the heart: Vena Cava, aorta, pulmonary artery, the pulmonary vein; blood supply to the heart: coronary arteries; Valves: Bicuspid, Tricuspid, Semilunar Valves; Circulation of blood in the heart: systole and diastole; blood vessel types: arteries, capillaries, veins, structure and function; some of the other main blood vessels: Hepatic portal vein, Hepatic artery and vein, Renal artery and vein;

Some disorders of the circulatory system: atherosclerosis, arteriosclerosis, myocardial infarction, angina: definition of each disorder;

Composition of blood: plasma, the liquid component of blood; a brief description of the structure and functions of RBC, WBC and platelets disorders of the blood: Haemophilia, anaemia. (The types of WBCs and the blood groups need not be studied);

How yoga helps to improve blood circulation and hence enhances the body's immunity.

4. The Excretory System

Organs of excretion; Parts of the excretory system; urine formation, disorders of the excretory system; Role of Yoga.

Lungs, skin and kidneys are the three organs of excretion; parts of the excretory system: the Kidney, Cortex and Medulla; Ureters; Bladder; Urethra.

Disorders of the excretory system: Kidney failure, Gout, Kidney stones; the Dialysis machine: meaning of each.

How the practice of yoga helps in maintaining the health of the excretory system and hence the elimination of waste from the body.

5. Personal hygiene through Yoga

Purpose of maintaining hygiene in Yoga; Yogic care and/or cleaning of sense organs.

Purpose of maintaining hygiene in yoga: removal of diseases, purification of the body, maintaining efficiency of the body, better immunity, long life, moral and spiritual elevation.

Yogic Care and/ or cleaning of the sense organs: Care of teeth, mouth, cleaning of the tongue (jivhamulashodhanam: benefits and procedure), cleaning of the ears (karnarandhradhouti procedure and its benefits); care of eyes: factors affecting the health of the eye, eye exercises-trataka (central fixation)-candle gazing.

SECTION II: SAGES OF INDIA

Candidates are to write notes on the lives and teachings of the following sages: Vyasa, Yagnavalkya, Narsi Mehta, Sri Aurobindo, Swami Vivekanand, Ramana Maharishi.

For each of the above sages, the candidates need to know briefly, two important aspects of their works.

1. Vyasa

Birth and early life; his birthday is celebrated as Guru Purnima; training under his father Rishi Parasara, his role as the grandfather of Pandavas and Kauravas, his son Shuka.

Works: The Bhramasutras, The Mahabharata, Srimad Bhagvatam, The Puranas, Vyasa Bhashya.

2. Yagnavalkya

Birth and education, dynamics of his relationship with his guru Vaisampayana (growing disagreement between the two at the ashram, Meet at Mount Meru, King Supriya and the formation of the Krishna Yajurveda); relationship with Surya Bhagvan, King Janaka, Gargi and Maitreyi

Works: The Yajurvedas, The Brihadaryanka and Bhramanas, Yoga Yagnavalkya Samhita.

3. Narsi Mehta

Birth and early life, three miraculous events in his life. His teaching and contributions- composition 'Vaishnava Jan To....'

4. Sri Aurobindo

His early life and education abroad; his mastery over several European and Indian languages; return to India; experience of the silent mind after guidance from Lele; Sri Aurobindo as one of the leaders of the freedom movement the newspaper - Vande Mataram; solitary confinement in Alipore Jail; acquittal and journey to Pondicherry; meeting with Mirra Alfassa who would in later years be called the Mother of the Sri Aurobindo Ashram; Auroville, Matri Mandir and the Sri Aurobindo Society.

Teachings of Sri Aurobindo: Yoga results in 'accelerated evolution'; Sri Aurobindo's Integral Yoga, guidelines on how man can consciously collaborate with the Divine in accelerating his evolution (An understanding of the human consciousness as having four beings simultaneously coexistent in it: (1) The Physical Being (2) The emotional being (3) the mental being (4) The spiritual being); the triple formula of Aspiration, Rejection and Surrender. His words: 'All life is Yoga' – bringing perfection, peace and harmony into all aspects of day-to-day life.
